

Election poll worker

Poll worker will be able to perform the following duties:

Arrive at polling site on time and remain there for 13 or more hours

Be able to read and write the English language

Be able to deal with voters in a courteous, efficient and fair manner

Be able to follow specified procedures, as set by Arkansas election law and by the polling place supervisor

Be able to get along with fellow pollworkers

Be willing to attend training when offered by the Election Commission

Poll workers must be residents of Washington County. Polling places are staffed by poll workers who live in precincts served by that polling place, when possible. When no poll workers are available who live in the polling area, poll workers from elsewhere in the county may work at a polling place.

Poll workers must be registered voters and over age 18.

Poll workers only work on election days, which in some polling places, may be once a year. Some polling places are open for election several times a year for elections.

Poll workers are paid $7.80 an hour.
